

Housebreaking Tips

- To train any dog young or old you must be consistent and vigilant.

Consistent

- All dogs and especially puppies must be taken outside immediately after waking up or napping and every few hours in between.
- Dogs or Puppies that are not housebroken need to be watched or contained. You can choose what works best for you a crate or a small pen.

Vigilant

- When you have the time to focus on your puppy and you are in the same room. You will observe some behavior that can tell you when they need to relieve themselves. They will be playing or entertaining themselves and suddenly they will stop what they are doing and begin to sniff the floor. This is when you pick the puppy up, tell them it's "time to go potty! Take them to the Pup-Head® and let them "smell the grass". Keep them on the grass until they do their business.

Universal Rule

This next rule applies to all dogs regardless if the dog is housebroken or not.

Dogs urinate when they smell a scent that communicates to their brain. In return, the brain gives a signal to their bladder to release. There are exceptions to every rule except this one! The difference between a housebroken dog and one that is not is the ability to override the impulse to release the bladder.

Pup-head™ Portable Dog Potty

How to Prepare Pup-Head™ to Appeal to Your Dog's Brain and Bladder.

If you want your dog to release in a specific area, then the fastest way to teach them, is to duplicate the smell that has their brain communicate with their bladder.

Pup-head is treated with a special attractant, Your dog will want to cover the attractant with their own scent. It is "Marking their Territory" If your dog does not respond to the scent follow the steps outlined and you will have your dog comfortably using Puphead in a short time..

- Follow your dog when they are sniffing for a place to go. Take a small container and when the dog begins to urinate, catch as much urine as possible. Be gentle and try not to surprise your dog. It will be a little easier to obtain a piece of stool. Using disposable latex gloves is a good idea.

- As you collect both liquid and solid waste, (small amounts) empty liquid directly on to the Pup-head grass. Also, place a very small amount of stool on the grass. This should work quickly on both adult and puppies.

Cleaning

Pup-head™ Portable Dog Potty can easily be cleaned with most household disinfectants. However, We suggest using only warm water so that the your dog can rely on their sense of smell to familiarize the territory. After your dog is comfortable using Pup-head™ head consistently, you can use a mild soap/disinfectant to clean the unit. CAUTION CAUTION CAUTION CAUTION

"Something Smells"

Your new Puphead™ has been treated with an all-natural attractant and while it is inviting to your dogs sense of smell, it really stinks to us humans.

Before you open the bag and remove it, you might want to take it out doors and let it "air out"
